The following write up appeared in a recent issue of The Toronto Globe and is from the pen of Victor Ross.

Wetaskiwin, June 17.—The legendary warfare of the Cree and Blackfoot. In the early days here there were many attempts to settle, after the old fashioned tomahawk method, the ownership of the best out country in America, although the natural resources of the land in soils, timber and its productiveness in cattle, was what made it the prize of that strong hand. Even the war loving Blackfoot began to realize after a time, however, the depressing effects which these fights exerted on the census returns, and it came to pass that a peace was made, there being not many able-bodied braves left to fight. The compact was ratified and the hatchet was buried in a pow-wow in the hills, overlooking the scenes of former conflict. The Indian council fires called these treaties the "Peace Hills," which is the English translation of the present name of the town. "Wetaskiwin," as an Indian word, is much more difficult of pronunciation than it looks. Some authorities succeeded in securing the effect by saying it backwards.

The place will always be a monument to the wisdom of the Indians in giving up their warfare to practise the busy arts of peace, for among the maharajah towns of the west its growth has been remarkable. Here the Cree Indian, who in his business dealings with the Blackfoot took ample revenge for past sufferings, secured a splendid restoration and turned farmer and stock-raiser. He now supplies the Government with large quantities of beef, which is used to feed the old braves and squaws who live at the expense of Canada, and he is the "freighter" for the entire country.

When the census was taken in 1901 Wetaskiwin was credited with a population of 621. The whole district was then engaged in recovering from the black eye which the crop failures of 1894-95 had given it. The country was producing tremendous quantities of oats, for which the mines of British Columbia and the war in South Africa offered a highly profitable market. In 1902 the population had grown to 1000 people, and this year there are 2000 souls in the town, which is every day extending its boundaries. There are not many old residents in Wetaskiwin, because the town's history can go back not much more than ten years, but the best informed man is never certain of the exact size of the place, for during this spring at least half a dozen houses have been added to it each week. The modern houses which are going up on ground that was in crop a few years ago, are not the rough shack which constitute the first dress of a western village. They are large, roomy buildings, built for the comfort and not rickety up to meet the demand for an immediate shelter. Neither are the people one meets on Wetaskiwin streets the typical inhabitants of a new town. The blue overalls, coarse woollen shirt and top boots that one has come to associate with the nascent communities have been discarded by the Wetaskiwin citizen, and even by the farmer, who now appears in town in neat tweeds. There are seven fine churches—the Episcopal, Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, Catholic, Lutheran and Scandinavian congregations, all having erected or added to substantial buildings within the past two years. The Scandinavian settlement, which was drawn both from the old country and the American States, has been foremost in many ways, and not least in religious duties.

The prosperity of past years is attributed to no other cause than American immigration. The amount of money brought into this part of the country by the American settlers has been considerably over one million of dollars, almost all of which has been put in circulation. They have wanted supplies of every kind and have paid liberally all classes of merchants. They have bought land to add to their homesteads, which accounts for the condition that, although land has almost doubled in value there are still buyers for it, wherever a good section is put on the market. The American settler has shown little preference for American goods until he came to buy his farm machinery, and he has then always shown a fondness for the binders, plows and drills to which he has been accustomed. The American machinery manufacturers have been wise enough to send into the country agents who for years operated in the United States, and so the farmer on buying from the American houses is generally dealing with an old friend. The influx of settlers has more than trebled the trade in implements within the past two years and has produced nearly a dozen new stores. The town has succeeded in reaching this condition of prosperity—the assessment is about $500,000—without creating civic debt. Some $35,000 was borrowed nine years ago for a school, and the last installment of these debentures will be paid next year, when new debentures to provide money for a town hall and another school will be issued. These will represent the entire liabilities of Wetaskiwin.

Hundreds of settlers who went east from the town from eighty to one hundred miles, in the hope of a railway soon, are likely to have their anticipations realized next year, although they suffer now. No one in the east can realize how completely detached from the outside world these farmers and their families are. Two days' rough travelling in a democrat is usually the price for some of them of a few hours in town.

The distances make the sale of grain or farm produce for export practically impossible, although some farmers come in forty miles with loads of oats last fall and gave the hotelkeeper most of the profit on the load in payment for the keep of themselves and their horses over night. Others who had to drive from twelve to fifteen miles, and could make the round trip in a day, brought in loads of from one hundred to one hundred and fifty bushels. The demand for oats fell off last year, too, and less than one-quarter of the amount exported the previous year was marketed. Despite confident prophecies, the lack of railroad has not caused the defection of any of those who took up land last year. Now the company has seen the absolute necessity of a road, which will keep these people in the country, and a line at least 100 miles long will be built by the Canadian Pacific east. The line will extend north of the Battle river straight through to the Saskatchewan valley, where it will effect a junction with another line, which is to be projected by the same company from Lacombe, some sixty miles down the Calgary and Edmonton line. In time these two lines will join the Canadian Pacific extension from the east to Battleford.

The conditions have forced the farmers to go more and more into the business of stock raising to their own great profit. The position which the stock raising industry has secured will probably be maintained, even when the railway comes, for it has been made plain that the country has certain advantages for stock. One man who began a ranch here four years ago, has already sold sufficient steers to pay for his original herd, and still has a good ranch and 180 cattle on it. Mr. Chas. B. Phillips, of Battle Lake, one of the largest ranchers in the district, told me that the experience of the last three years had led to the conclusion that what was not to be the staple grain of these parts, at least until the country became more thickly settled, cultivated and drained. The wheat of the two harvests of 1900 and 1901 was frosted and unsalable, while the crop of 1902 was harvested with out frost. The frozen wheat was chopped up and fed to steers by Mr. Phillips, who made a test of the wheat as a feed. The result of the sale of the fat steers showing a price of $1 per bushel to have been obtained for the wheat, which had passed through a snowstorm and a heavy frost. The economic value of this class of feeding, which is now being followed by other farmers, is that these stable-fed cattle are ready for market when fat range cattle are unavailable. The cultivation of barley for feeding purposes is being taken up, and has this year proved a profitable feed. As the aspect of the country changes and the settlement reduces the opportunities for free hay and free grazing, the farmers are going in for a judicious system of rotation cropping, keeping as many cattle, hogs and sheep on their land as possible, and converting their hay, grain and roots into beef, pork, mutton and butter for the British Columbia and foreign market. The exports of cattle, butter and eggs brought hundreds of thousands of dollars to Wetaskiwin this year, and with the same climatic conditions the output will be possibly doubled next year.

Communication

We do not necessarily endorse the statements expressed in this or any other communication which may appear in the columns of The Times.

To the Editor of The Times—I read with considerable interest and pleasure the communication of "A Canuck-Yankee" and must admit that better advantages could be obtained than by casting slurs; yet whilst granting all this and at the same time not wishing to excuse myself in any way for my recent replies to the writer of the chronicles, I would ask this question, viz: would a man be true to his country unless he defended it? It was not the aggression, but a humble defender of subjects attacked, belonging to the mightiest Empire that yet has been and probably ever will be.

However, now that the pen swords have been crossed and honor satisfied for my part, I am quite willing to discuss any subject with which I am conversant or to do my best with what perhaps I might be less acquainted for often the unexpected crops up.

In conclusion I would thank "A Canuck-Yankee" for his kind letter and for the undoubted good advice it contains and although I probably do not know him personally I feel sure he is one whose friendship would be worth having. I remain dear sir,

DISTRICT NEWS

Gathered by our own staff of wide-awake correspondents.

Hillsdale

The number of stray bulls around this settlement lately have been legion, fortunately they have all been of a kind disposition otherwise the lives of our settlers would have been anything but happy.

On Sunday last the owner of a fine animal called at a ranch to claim his, and the task he essayed leading it away although aided by another man, together with a number of willing helpers, beggars description, although its owner had never known it to jump fences, he felt, however, to-day convinced of its capabilities, for it got over a five bar gate with ease and left its master far behind looking on with amusement and probably reciting poetry.

On Friday last a considerable shock descended upon the Hillsdalis re their wonderful new school and its no less wonderful trustees. The shock I refer to is simply the tax paper, pointing out the sum of $8.00 per quarter section, or some $3 in excess of the first tax. This in all conscience is disgraceful, when at the utmost only 24 children can attend. The prophetic assurances of some grander that the tax would gradually become lower is now clearly a fallacy and may have been either a fond idea or a wicked misleader.
Whichever it is, the correct thing for the ratepayers is to call an indignation meeting and demand an exhaustive proof as to how and where the taxes have gone and are going and are so high. Let them be unanimous and if no other plan will stop this wicked taxation, then get the school disorganized, and the sooner the better. For if we are to be taxed in this manner it will evidently be as well to go to some taxed place of civilization and enjoy the comforts. Fancy, besides the already exorbitant taxes for a poor district, adding another $3 for books, which each scholar in the third reader is told to ask parents to buy. It is "oh my dear school," with a vengeance, and I much doubt if the dangle of such an institution as our school will be sufficient draw even to sell a homestead or two, as contemplated. The gee-gaw looks good enough, but the draw-lacks not so.

Silver Creek

On the 18th inst. Mr. Wm.
Campbell met with the trustees of Silver Creek school district to balance up his accounts as treasurer, he having resigned on account of being in the employ of the C.P.R. survey party, and could not give as much attention to the work as required. Mr Campbell's accounts were all found O.K. and the board expressed its regrets in having to lose him from the staff. Success, Will, in your new vocation, is the wish of the district.

Mr. W. E. Crumrine has been elected treasurer of the district to succeed Mr. W. E. Campbell, who was compelled, owing to removal, to resign. Mr Crumrine is one of our best citizens and will be a painstaking official.

Miss M. N. Polly, before leaving the Dried Meat Lake district, where she had been teaching, she left the money for the purchase of a carpet for the Dried Meat Lake church, and on Wednesday last the ladies met and cleared away the plaster and laid the carpet.

Elmer Ellington contemplates building a new house on his farm.
Irene E. Ross, drove the plan and Mr. Ellington knows that if they do the work he will have an up-to-date building. Silver Creek district has many good buildings, but this will be a lumner.

Mr. Ferguson delivered a fine sermon on the 19th, at the school and those in attendance were well pleased and felt that they were well repaid for coming out to attend the service.

The sound of the sickle is heard in the land and the colour of new mown hay prevails. H. J. Schoolcraft has commenced on his beautiful meadow and will cut about 250 tons this year.

Alfred Love has commenced work for Mr. Schoolcraft.

Nashville

Last Monday was picnic day and a large crowd gathered at Clarence Holman's grove and had a fine time. Ice cream, root beer and good things were to be had in plenty.

We notice that Mr. Peterson, of town, is putting up hay for Rev.
Alfred Holman now a days, but the rain last Thursday stopped the work for the balance of the week.

Miss Annie Holmer and Miss Emily Johnson were home from B.C. a few days last week visiting relatives and friends.

Rev. Olman went to Red Deer last Friday to hold services. Mr.
Olman is working hard for his church and his efforts are greatly appreciated.

We notice that Mr. S. A. Anderson, of Nashville, is preparing to build a fine new barn. John Paterson is to do the work which means a good job. This is a step in the right way to protect your stock from the cold and snow in winter.

Now is the time for farmers to get the repairs for the binders before the rush of work comes on and makes a delay. This means money lost to the farmer for not having his binder ready in due time for work.

A. L. Marks, teacher of Nashville school, is again to work at his hard field of labor. The fall term is short in Nashville district and we expect Mr. Marks is glad of it as teaching is a hard job and still under where the people don't take an interest in the welfare of the school. Mr. Marks should be secured for the next year if possible.

His Last Hope Realized

(From the Sentinel, Gibe, Mass.)

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1890, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made a big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claims, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severest of his many hardships, imposed a check, and along in June the case became so bad as to expect to die.
One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Catarrh's cure, and he tried it, and found it was a big hope. A big dose was given him while he was lying about on the ground in great agony, in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was feeling his first sound sleep for a long time. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful. The reason for bowel disorders being at hand suggest this item. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

The Late Pope

The following is contributed by a well-known Calgary citizen, who has carefully followed the career of the late pope:

Pope Leo XIII., Joachim Pecci, supreme head of the Roman Catholic church, passed away yesterday morning. His titles were His Holiness the Pope, Bishop of Rome, Vicar of Jesus Christ, Successor of St. Peter, Prince of the Apostles, Supreme Pontiff of the Universal Church, Patriarch of the West, Primate of Italy, Archbishop and Metropolitan of the Roman Province, and Sovereign of the Temporal Dominions of the Holy Roman Church. He was the 263rd in the line of popes, the 3rd long-lived and was the longest reigning, after Pius IX. The motto on his crest was "Lumen in celo" (Light in Heaven).

Pope Leo was born in Carpineto, then in the Papal States, on March 2, 1810, of the noble family of the Pecci. He was named Joachim Vincenzo. Educated by the Jesuits, he showed a great aptitude for natural science, taking at the age of 15 first prize for chemistry and physics. This, however did not interfere with his taste for literature nor with his classical studies. The Latin acquired was remarkable for its elegance and purity, which subsequently found such notable expression, not only in encyclicals and ecclesiastical work, but also in poetry. In 1834 he was ordained priest. Three years later Mgr. Pecci was named governor of the Papal province of Benevento, where he located himself in suppressing brigandage. In 1843 consecrated Bishop of Damietta, he went to Brussels as Papal Nuncio. Here he gave promise of that political insight which so distinguished him in his pontifical office. For his episcopal labors and the energy displayed as Archbishop of Perugia, Mgr. Pecci was elevated to the dignity of cardinal. Later he was appointed camerlingo, or the charge of the temporalities of the holy see. In February 1878, he was elected at the conclave, which lasted but 36 hours and at the third ballot, to succeed Pius IX.

As pope, Leo XIII. maintained his demand for the restoration of the temporal power of the papacy. He by voice and pen ever called upon both spiritual and civil authorities to make common cause against a common enemy—social democracy. He won over Bismarck from his coercion of individual conscience and fought vigorously the philosophy of John Stuart Mill on human liberty. In the dispute of Germany and Spain regarding the Caroline Islands, Leo was chosen as arbitrator, and the former definitively accepted his decision in favor of the weaker power. Another political stroke of his was to change the attitude of the Vatican in regard to the French republic. The celebration of the 25th anniversary of his coronation took place in St. Peter's at Rome on March 3rd last. On April 28 Pope Leo XIII. had in his pontificate surpassed "the years of Peter," which were 25 years, 2 months and 7 days.

All classes and creeds proclaimed a tribute of respect and admiration for the "Grand Old Man of the Vatican." Writers, differing from him in religious views, have praised his lofty character and noble life. They have called Leo XIII. "the greatest religious and moral leader of modern times." Alluding to his appearance, which was tall and slender, and his face was white as illuminated alabaster, a contributor to the Pall Mall magazine said that "he is like a lamp, the flame of which continues to live without any perceptible reservoir to feed it."

A leading west of England daily said of him, "he is a wit, a scholar, and a man of lofty aim and far-reaching sympathy." Last year Dr. Lunn, president of the Grindewald reunion conference brought an address to Rome acknowledging the Christian courtesy and pious aspirations of the pope's letter addressed to the English people. It was signed by Anglicans, Presbyterians, Congregationalists and Methodists.

Who will be the new pope? It is hard to say. No doubt he will be Italian, as that nation has a majority among the cardinals. The late pontiff but little thought, we are told, of his chance of election at the time of the death of Pius IX. It was even said of him that he was then too old to assume the duties and responsibilities of the head of a religion whose followers are over 200,000,000, more than twice the number of all the other Christian believers put together. Yet Leo XIII. governed his church with a prudence and love that will serve to make his name honored and revered for generations to come. Yet there has not been in the world for many generations a man whose life and whose life-work will occupy so large a place in the history of mankind.

Rome, July 25.—The body of Pope Leo was interred in St. Peter's at the altar. The strophes of the hymn which resounded throughout the immense dome of the cathedral announced to the earnest gathering in the nave that Leo XIII. had been laid to rest. At sundown the most important and most solemn of all the obsequies took place. About one thousand persons had received invitations to attend the ceremonies. Through special permission a representative of the Associated Press was allowed to enter the chapel of St. Sacrament before the remains of the dead pontiff were removed. Cardinal Rampolla, president of the Basilica, was waiting outside the gates, in violet robes, surrounded by the chapter of the cathedral, which was led by Mgr. Coppalotti, who conducted the services. Doctors Laponi and Mazzoni directed the work of the removal of the hier which was executed by eight soldiers in brilliant red brocade costumes.

MILLET

The Millet boys have organized a baseball team, and they are now waiting for a challenge.

Jack Jackson left on Monday for South Dakota, where he intends remaining until fall.

Miss Nellie Pruning has just returned from her visit to Leeds. She says Millet is alright, if it is a little slow.

Mr. Mullen keeps his dog "Ship" on guard since some of his thor'd breed feather-legged chickens went to church. He says that fellow must have had a cloth tied over his head or there would have been some light in the coop.

Mrs. John West has been very ill for a few days, but we are glad to say she is feeling better.

Dr. Little of Leeds was called in to see Mrs. Lane who has been quite ill for some time. Her many friends wish her speedy recovery.

Mrs. McPherson, of the Millet boarding house, expects to move out on her homestead near Pigeon Lake in the near future.

The many Millet friends of Mr. and Mrs. Smith were sorry to see them leave the village for their homestead west of here.

Jack Worley has been filling up and improving his town lot on Alberta st. We are afraid something is going to happen. Get your tin pans and cow bells, boys.

The people of Millet expect to see Miss E. J. Rife come back and take possession of the Millet school for the next term.

John Reick arrived home from his trip to North Dakota a few days ago. He says Millet is booming and he will not take $10 an acre for his land, three miles west of Millet, now.

P. J. Mullen returned from B.C. some time ago and says the roads out that way are both rough and rocky.

The following petition explains itself: To the Millet School Board.

GENTLEMEN,—We, the undersigned resident ratepayers, of the Millet School District No. 555, petition the Millet School Board to keep Miss E. J. Rife for teacher of the Millet school. She is a teacher of good ability and our children have made good progress during her term. We surely think our School Board is laboring under some great mistake when they ask for her resignation. We think it strange that our trustees would listen to one or two natural cranks who are not pleased with themselves let alone a teacher who tries to make their children mind and learn. She has done all in her power to teach our school and our School Inspector reports her abilities sound and good. We would ask that our Trustees give this a good investigation before they hire another teacher. We are yours very respectfully, W. F. Blades, John W. West, John Schuller, R. A. Elder, Mrs. Christina Johnson, James Blades, Philip Bouska, Mrs. Philip Bouska, Mrs. F. C. VanMeter, Mrs. H. A. Lane, H. G. Worley, May E. West, Henry Laird, E. H. Frothing, Mrs. E. C. McPherson, Sonia Robby, Mrs. Maude Patrick, Wm. A. Connelly, Mrs. Wm. A. Connelly, Mrs. Myrtle Mullen, J. A. VanMeter, Mrs. T. Aikens, Mrs. E. Vanatysne, R. Kubitsky, Robert A. Dowler, Felix McElzhain, Knut Johnson, O. C. Erickson and family, E. C. VanMeter, E. S. Vraa, J. Dowler, B. A. VanMeter and E. E. VanMeter.

The body of J. C. Bell has been found in the Red Deer river about 10 miles east of Lacombe and Corner Sharpe went out Monday of last week to investigate. It will be remembered that Bell disappeared some months ago; and was supposed to have been murdered and his body thrown into the river. A reward was offered for recovery. Cashel, who is charged with the murder, is under sentence for two years for horse stealing, having been convicted of stealing Bell's horse. He is also said to have received considerable money from Bell. He is the possessor of a watch which was the inventory for the murder—La-combe Advertiser.

J. Y. Byers has accepted a situation in A. S. Rowland's conveying office, his duties to commence on August 1st.

Miss McCarty who has been spending part of her vacation the guest of Mrs. Thos. Torson, returned home to Edmon this week.

Rev's J. E. Hogg and N. P. Grosse and Messrs. A. W. Anderson and John F. Peterson were at Edmon last week attending a session of the Presbytery.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Mills returned from their honeymoon trip to the coast on Wednesday, he learned that a man answering the description of the prisoner LaPage, who escaped from Fort Saskatchewan was vending his way south. On Friday the constable went to near Pigeon Lake and found that the prisoner had stopped for a meal at a farm house. From this clue he tracked LaPage some eight miles and then found him in an old shack. Con Bingham accompanied his man to the Fort on Saturday's train.

In our account of Alfred Mason's accident on Rotherberg hill a couple weeks ago we made a couple of unintentional mistakes. The accident was caused by a large hole on the side of the hill through which the horse driven by Mr. Mason would not go. When the driver urged the animal it jumped to one side and upset the load. The hill was not slippery as we stated, but has always been in a dangerous condition and it is a wonder more serious accidents have not occurred. The road should be fixed without delay. Mr. Mason was not removed to town as soon as injured but was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rotherberg and there received the best care and attention. Had it not been for the kindness of these hospitable people there might have been a sadder tale to record.

The Vegreville correspondent to the Edmon Bulletin says: Mr. Nunnely, who brought in a band of horses recently, met with quite an experience a few miles distant from Vegreville. In a horse deal with some Galicians, Mr. Nunnely was made partaker of a few "armed" remarks, while some of the flourishes of Galician wrath were being defacing in their results. As a result our very worthy North West Mounted Policeman, Mr. Nichols, was notified, and very soon the guilty parties were arrested and on Saturday afternoon of last week, they appeared before Jno. Fleming, our Justice of the Peace, to answer for their "misdeeds done to the body" of Mr. Nunnely, for besides having his left arm terribly bruised, a bone was slightly fractured. As a result of the court each of the guilty Galicians was fined five dollars and costs.

Constable Bingham made a very clever capture last week. While at Leduc on Thursday, he learned that a man answering the description of the prisoner LaPage, who escaped from Fort Saskatchewan was vending his way south. On Friday the constable went to near Pigeon Lake and found that the prisoner had stopped for a meal at a farm house. From this clue he tracked LaPage some eight miles and then found him in an old shack. Con Bingham accompanied his man to the Fort on Saturday's train.

In our account of Alfred Mason's accident on Rotherberg hill a couple weeks ago we made a couple of unintentional mistakes. The accident was caused by a large hole on the side of the hill through which the horse driven by Mr. Mason would not go. When the driver urged the animal it jumped to one side and upset the load. The hill was not slippery as we stated, but has always been in a dangerous condition and it is a wonder more serious accidents have not occurred. The road should be fixed without delay. Mr. Mason was not removed to town as soon as injured but was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rotherberg and there received the best care and attention. Had it not been for the kindness of these hospitable people there might have been a sadder tale to record.

The Vegreville correspondent to the Edmon Bulletin says: Mr. Nunnely, who brought in a band of horses recently, met with quite an experience a few miles distant from Vegreville. In a horse deal with some Galicians, Mr. Nunnely was made partaker of a few "armed" remarks, while some of the flourishes of Galician wrath were being defacing in their results. As a result our very worthy North West Mounted Policeman, Mr. Nichols, was notified, and very soon the guilty parties were arrested and on Saturday afternoon of last week, they appeared before Jno. Fleming, our Justice of the Peace, to answer for their "misdeeds done to the body" of Mr. Nunnely, for besides having his left arm terribly bruised, a bone was slightly fractured. As a result of the court each of the guilty Galicians was fined five dollars and costs.
